
*A detective.
A case with no victim.
A file with no name on it.*

Twenty-two scenes about ego, identity,
and the universal human condition.

The garbage man who doesn't look up.
The old man who stands too close.

The teenagers with borrowed certainty.

The child who drops the hammer at 10:16 PM.

Dark but light. Cynical but comical.

One missing chapter.

An ending you'll only find

if you keep reading.

"The film keeps rolling either way."

SHANE BRAZELTON

ISBN / BARCODE

SHANE BRAZELTON

YOU

PROBABLY THINK

THIS BOOK IS

ABOUT YOU

*It was always about you.
It was never only about you.*

SHANE BRAZELTON